MANSFIELD LECTURE AT UM FEB. 27

MISSOULA--

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will present the sixth annual public address in the continuing Mansfield Lectures on International Relations on Feb. 27 at the University of Montana.

Kissinger's stopover in Missoula will take place while he is en route to San Francisco, Calif., for an international conference scheduled for Feb. 28.

The Montana lecture by Kissinger will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 27 in the Harry Adams Field House at UM.

The Mansfield Lecture Series was established in 1967 under the Mike and Maureen Mansfield Endowment of the University of Montana Foundation. The series, supported by donations of approximately $120,000, was founded in recognition of the Senate Majority Leader's 25 years of congressional service and the University's 75th anniversary, which coincided in 1968.

Kissinger was sworn in as the 56th Secretary of State on Sept. 22, 1973. He continues to hold the position of Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, which he first assumed in 1969.

Dr. Kissinger was formerly professor of government and faculty member of the Center for International Affairs at Harvard University. Before joining the Nixon Administration in January 1969, he had been a consultant with several governmental agencies, including the Department of State, National Security Council and the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and he was foreign policy adviser to Governor Nelson Rockefeller in the presidential campaign of 1968.

A noted author, Kissinger in 1958 received the Woodrow Wilson Prize and Citation from the Overseas Press Club for his book "Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy." He received the American Institute for Public Service Award in 1973 for the greatest public service performed by an elected or appointed official.

From 1943-46 Dr. Kissinger served in the U.S. Army Counter-Intelligence Corps, and from 1946-49 he was a captain in the Military Intelligence Reserve. He speaks French and German.

Kissinger graduated from Harvard College with highest honors and he holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in government from Harvard University. He has been the recipient of several academic honors including the Guggenheim Fellowship and membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

Senator Mansfield inaugurated the lecture series with an address entitled "China: Retrospect and Prospect" in 1968. He was followed by Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith, "New Industrial State: The Case, Criticism and Consequences," in 1969; Senator Edward M. Kennedy, "United States Relations with Latin America," in 1970; Dr. Milton Friedman, "Dollar Standard: Problems and Prospects," in 1971; and New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, "America's Third Century," in April 1973.
